PRICE TWO CENTS

Freshman Debating Supremacy Determined By Shield Winner

Contest Open Only To New-comers of McGill

Topic Announced as Speakers Prepare Arguments

THE Bovey-Shield public speaking contest is to be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the McGill Union. The subject for the journey, just released, is "Resolved that the British Empire today is the greatest influence for world peace." This competition, open to all freshmen at McGill, has in the past been sponsored by the Junior Debating League; but this year since the league's absorption into the Debating Union, the contest is now being held by that organization.

The contest will be presided over by men formerly prominent in McGill debating circles. Edmund Collard, President of the Debating Union 1932-33 will be in the chair. Mr. Collard is at present practicing law in the city. Along with him, Kenneth Baker and Arthur Marshall will act as judges. Baker, a law student was last year's president of the Debating Union and Marshall, a graduate in Theology, was for many years a well known speaker here.

Rules For Contestants

Many contestants have already enlisted on the form placed on the notice board in the arts building, and all other aspirants should sign up before noon today. The subject, as has been the custom, is only announced on the morning of the competition. This serves to give the competition a semi-impromptu effect which is meant to reveal the true qualities of the speaker. There is still left about eight hours in which to look up data and compose a speech. The finished product will be judged as much on presentation as on material.

Opportunity For Freshmen

The subject may be approached from either affirmative or negative side, the order in which each will speak is determined by lot. The contestants being given numbers do not hear preceding speakers, thus not revealing how good or bad they may be. The contest is well suited to those making an initial effort in the field, the debating executive states; this, and the fact that its nature and large turnout provides the executive with an opportunity to select potential talent, makes it a lead-off for the season's activities.

The winner will have his name engraved on the Shield which is kept in the custody of the Debating Union. Further, he is usually invited to participate in the activities of the Union during the year. Former winners have included David Lewis, Rhodes Scholar at Oxford, Arthur Marshall of Theology, Henry Schaffhausen of the Faculty of Law, Bill Hasler, John MacLellan, Clarence Gross, Sidney Friedman and Morton Godine.

Appointments Made To Magazine Staff

Representatives For Annual Chosen by Faculties

Further appointments to the Annual, were announced last night by the Editor-in-Chief. The following representatives have been appointed: Arts and Science, Geoffrey Hess; R.V.C., Doris Wacksmuth; Commerce, Constance Monaghan; Law, Charles Wayland; Theology, Selwyn Willis; Graduate School, Dick Richardson; Architecture, Max Roth; MacDonald College, J. The representatives for Medicine, M.S.P.E. and Engineering have not yet been appointed but will be named within a few days.

New Staff Meets

These new members of the staff will meet in the Annual office on Tuesday at 5:30 to have their work outlined.

The photographic contest for the Annual will be allocated during the next few days as tenders have been received from most of the leading photographers of the city.

The photographic staff has already accomplished a considerable amount of work in connection with the "Campus Life" section, which task will be continued throughout the year. It has been announced that there will be prizes awarded both for photographs and for sales. For photographs there will be two prizes, one of five dollars and an Annual for the best photograph received from a member of the photographic staff; and the other, an Annual, for the best photograph received from an Undergraduate not on the photographic staff and similar prizes will be awarded for sales.

Work on the magazine is now several weeks ahead of last year. Several features have been planned and editorial work will be begun before the end of the month.

I. V. C. F. Hears Informal Address By S. R. Weaver

Church Services Conducted by Two Fellowship Members

"Can a University Student Believe in God?" was the topic of an informal talk given by S. R. Weaver Saturday evening when the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship held its opening squash of the season at the home of Dr. W. D. Reid.

The speaker presented four proofs of his theory that the student can believe in God. Man, stated the speaker, is inspired by an instinctive belief in a Divine being, unless he is blinded by materialism and rationalism. He pointed out that in practically all healthy tribes, there is some form of worship which, in many cases, has developed from monotheism to polytheism.

Then, taking as an example the world before us, Mr. Weaver claimed that it showed in a marvellous way the existence of some sort of Divine Creator. He gave as a quotation, "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handiwork." Various things in the universe led him rather to believe in the story of creation as the Bible tells it, than to accept the scientific theory of evolution.

Drawing the attention of his audience to the Bible, he pointed to it as his third proof, making reference to its remarkable formation, unification and preservation. Students were asked to explain its unity of matter, despite the fact that it was written through a period of many hundreds of years, and by different writers of various classes. This must have been due to the fact that God has been the real author behind it.

Every Sunday throughout the year one or more services will be conducted by members of the fellowship.

Mr. S. Reid, Arts '38 conducted the evening service in the Livingstone Presbyterian Church of Outremont North, where he was assisted by two members of the fellowship.

Bible Study Group Headed By Lawyer

The Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship at McGill has obtained Mr. Campbell as the leader of their Bible Study Group.

Mr. Campbell practised law in India for several years and earned for himself a very high reputation. Since his retirement he has travelled extensively throughout Europe and America and has now made his home in Montreal. This lawyer has devoted a great deal of time to the study of the Bible, having read commentaries by English, German, French and Italian writers. The executive therefore feel that he is fully qualified to conduct these lectures.

During the term Mr. Campbell will speak on the book of "Revelation."

These meetings will be held in the Conference Room of Divinity Hall at 3 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, and all students are urged to be present.

Workshop Reviews Plays For Season

Plans for this year's workshop productions of the Players' Club are being formed by the executive. To discuss them, a special meeting will be held in the Union Ballroom tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock. All those who are associated with the Club and anybody interested in the Club's activities are invited to attend the meeting.

Charles Penco, chairman of the workshop productions has scheduled three plays for this season. Two of the plays have been written by McGill students, one by Howard Stikeman and the other by Muriel Armstrong. At present the work of a prominent playwright is being considered for the third, but a play by a student might possibly be substituted in its stead. The date of production is yet uncertain and the matter is to be taken up at the meeting.

Nothing definite has been decided with regard to the major productions which the Club holds yearly in Moyse Hall. The choice of plays for the first one has been narrowed down from a field of fifty to three. These plays which the executive have in view are light comedies by modern authors.

Principal Addresses Ontario Graduates' Society In Toronto

Mr. Morgan Again Stresses Need of Men's Residence

GREAT RECEPTION

Old Footballers Get Together at Banquet in Royal York

By J. H. McD.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 19.—"I have never found such a courteous body of men as the McGill Students," said Principal Morgan in addressing a large gathering of Ontario Graduates in the Royal York Hotel last Saturday night.

In paying tribute to the welcome he received at McGill the Principal said that every member of the staff, from Dean Martin to the most Junior member had been extremely kind to him, and had made him feel completely at home. The Principal also paid tribute to the members of the board of Governors who had dug into their own pockets to insure a solvent financial condition for the next four years at McGill.

McGill Old Institution

"McGill people are apt to forget that McGill is a great deal older than many English seats of learning," said Mr. Morgan. He said he found a sense of loyalty to McGill on the part of the Graduates and a usefulness to the country seen in few other colleges. He felt that the place of the University was to teach men and women to do the jobs needed by the community and to teach them to think and seek the root of the various problems.

Today the specialist is apt to look upon the world through his own little window, limiting his vision to his own narrow field. Instead we need to develop men with broad vision and sound judgment.

Develop Citizens

The Principal said that he found McGill was hampered in this work of developing citizens by lack of accommodation of the male students who lived at a distance. The Principal said that he hoped the Ontario Branch of the Graduates' Society, who were so willing to help their Alma Mater would consider this matter seriously," for stated the Principal, "it is only by training the young men in these residential halls that we can give them adequate supervision with the necessary liberty. Above all the University must not mollycoddle the student." The present system stated Mr. Morgan is too risky and too rigid.

Thanks University for Reception

In the course of his address Mr. Morgan stated that the reception accorded him on the part of the Governors, the Staff and the Students was wonderful. He claimed that he had never found as courteous a body of men as the McGill Students. He pointed out that the Governors had come to the aid of the University to the tune of over half a million dollars in order that he might take over his new responsibilities with a clean slate.

McGill Going Ahead

In closing the Principal stated that McGill could not rest on its laurels. The University would either go ahead or go back. He assured the audience that McGill was going ahead.

Mr. Morgan was introduced by Mr. John T. Hackett, President of the Graduates' Society. Mr. L. M. Waterhouse, President of the Ontario Branch of the Graduates' Society was in the Chair. This branch of the Graduates' Society is celebrating its first birthday this year, "but," stated the chairman, "it seems to be very healthy as we can see by the turnout tonight."

Guests at the head table included Mr. J. T. Kerry, who 50 years ago was captain of the McGill football club. Mr. Kerry was presented with a silver mug. The presentation was made by Fred Wigle, Captain of the McGill Football Club of 1935.

Coach Joe O'Brien also said a few words and assured the gathering that next week McGill would take the Blue Team into camp.

Newman Club Held Dance Last Friday

First Informal of Year Held in Congress Hall

Last Friday night, as announced in the Daily, the Newman Club held its first informal dance of the year, at Congress Hall, corner of Dorchester and Union streets.

An orchestra was in attendance, the arrangements being set by Frank Corrigan and Phyllis McKenna. Refreshments were served, and entertainment was provided by Mr. Frank Higgins, a popular entertainer from Toronto, who impersonated "Amos 'n' Andy."

Those present numbered about one hundred and fifty, including many of

Revue Executive Calls For Skits

RETURNING to their policy of some years ago, the Red and White Revue executive have decided that the Revue this year will consist of a number of skits written by the undergraduates. Playwrights are much in demand, and those who would like to take part in this work are asked to report to the Revue office on Monday, Wednesday or Friday from 2:30 to 5:30. Any of the faculties intending to submit skits are requested to send a representative to the office, to give the executive an idea of the type and number of skits to be expected.

There are still a good many positions open on the committee for freshmen. There is a good chance for advancement on the committee, with the possibility of a position on the executive at the end of a couple of years' work. The chorus will be called before the end of November.

Students To Discuss Social Credit Plans

Allen Anderson and Sol Levites Address Political Economy Club

SEASONS PROGRAMS

Opening Meeting of Club in Arts Building Tomorrow Night

THE FEASIBILITY of $25 dividends and other vital problems which are identified with Social Credit will be thrashed out by Allan Anderson and Sol Levites at the opening meeting of the Political Economy Club tomorrow night. The meeting will be held in the Arts Building and will commence at 8:15.

Social Credit which as a political party sends 15 members to the House of Commons and has nearly every seat in the Legislative Assembly of Alberta, advocates many policies which have been condemned by leading economists. The speakers, who are both honour students in Economics and Political Science, will analyse the rise of Social Credit theories in Canada and the results both for the present and the future.

Aberhart Discussed

The outstanding Social Credit exponent in Canada is William Aberhart, Premier of Alberta. Aberhart, it is said, has borrowed most of his ideas from Major Douglas, originator of post-war credit reformation plans. Major Douglas was advisor to the late Alberta government and is still under contract to the present government. Much has been discussed with regard to the Douglas scheme of handing out dividends to citizens, and many local politicians have ridiculed the promised dividend of $25 in Alberta as being, as being impractical. Premier Tschernauer predicted a new government in Alberta within six months.

Jews Hide Troubles In Wit And Humour

Rabbi Eisendrath of Toronto Addresses People's Forum

"No people has found in wit so ready an escape in years of persecution and peril as the Jewish people," were the words of Sigmund Freud quoted by Rabbi N. Eisendrath of Toronto, when he addressed The People's Forum Sunday evening, on "Rome, Berlin and Jerusalem."

The Jews Persecuted in certain countries long for British protection, said the Rabbi, rousing his audience to laughter by telling a joke to the effect that if Moses had left his people in Egypt, they would now be able to get British passports.

A ghastly, gruesome threat stands in Rome. It Duce from the beginning of his authority has always cheered for war and called peace a prelude to further wars. In 1937 he urged readiness at a moment's notice for the mobilization of 5,000,000 men.

Jews Persecuted

In Berlin two years ago there was a reign of terror: Up to the present time there had been very little change. Much more fear lurks behind the barricaded windows and doors of the persecuted citizens than during 1933. At first the Germans refused to buy from Jews; now they are forbidden to sell to them. Driven from one town to another, members of the stricken race flock to the cities, only to suffer isolation, hunger and continual fear. But not only is the Jew under Der Fuhrer; the priest of the Christian church has been coupled with him in cartoons, in the Alumni, as well as the old and the new members. The club chaplain, Rev. J. Cooney, was also present. The dance started at 9 o'clock and broke up about 1 a.m.

Highway Takes Toll As R. V. C. Student Meets Tragic Death

One Student Killed and Three Injured as Car Overtakes In Ditch

ROAD WAS SLIPPERY

Mary Catherine Boggs, Arts '38, Instantly Killed; Others Injured

Tragedy stalked at McGill's doors on Friday morning last, when one R.V.C. co-ed was instantly killed and three others escaped with slight injuries, after their automobile skidded on the slippery road, near St. Luc, Quebec, and overturned in the ditch. The accident occurred about eight o'clock, as the girls were returning to McGill after visiting relatives in Burlington, Vermont.

The dead girl is Miss Mary Catherine Boggs, 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Boggs, of Noranda, Que. She was crushed underneath the overturned car and died from a fractured skull and severe internal injuries.

Suffer Injuries

Those who were injured are Miss Eleanor Morse, 19 years of age, of Bathurst, N.B., who is suffering from severe cuts about the face; Miss Regina Rowell, 19 years of age, of Randolph, Vt., who suffered slight cuts about the body, and Miss Kathleen E. Deroy, 20 years of age, of Westboro, Ont., who is suffering from internal injuries and cuts about the head.

Witness Crash

Constable Marotte, of the Provincial Motorcycle Police, who was summoned to the scene of the crash learned that the automobile was driven by Miss Morse. The students were riding in a roadster and were travelling from Burlington towards Montreal. Ovide Raymond, of St. Johns, who was an eye-witness of the accident, stated that he saw the car leave the road as though the driver had lost control of the steering wheel. The auto ran a short distance in the ditch and then overturned. As the car overturned, Raymond said, he heard the occupants scream. He rushed immediately to their assistance and found Miss Boggs and Miss Derby crushed beneath the rumbleseat. The other two girls were imprisoned under the front seat.

Help Summoned

Aided by a passing motorist, Raymond succeeded in freeing the girls who were under the front seat. They were unable, however, to move the car so as to extricate the other two victims. Raymond immediately summoned aid from St. Johns and Constable Marotte, with several citizens, arrived on the scene. They called an ambulance from the St. John Hospital which waited while men got the girls from under the car.

Death Instantaneous

After the car had been lifted, one of the internes from the hospital examined Miss Derby and stated that she was very badly hurt. He immediately ordered her removal to the hospital. Miss Boggs however, was pronounced dead. The physician stated that her death had been instantaneous. Dr. Oscar Laberge, district coroner, was notified and held an inquest immediately. After hearing the evidence of the eye-witnesses of the accident and the version given by the surviving occupants of the automobile, he returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of Miss Boggs. Her parents were immediately notified.

Miss Morse and Miss Rowell are both music students at McGill University, while Miss Derby is a second year Arts student and was a classmate of Miss Boggs.

Miss Boggs was a second year Arts student, taking the B.A. course. She was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., and entered McGill University last year after graduating from Noranda High School.

Activities Resumed At Aeroplane Club

Glider Tested at Meet Saturday Afternoon

Last Saturday, a party of students representing the McGill Light Aeroplane Club spent the afternoon inspecting and testing the Club's glider. They were accompanied by two graduates, Doctor Richardson and Mr. Oswald Barry, who instructed those who were not familiar with flying.

The glider was found to be in first-class condition and handled well in the ground-tows and one short hop to which it was subjected.

It is expected that active flying will be begun on Thanksgiving Day or the following week-end at the latest. The membership fee this year is three dollars. This may be paid to Harry Grimsdale at the Engineering Building. Flying will be continued each week-end from now on, weather permitting.

Sixth Straight Track Win And Football Defeat Mark Red Invasion Of Toronto

Trackmen Gain Decisive Victory Over Blue as Three Records Fall

By Fred W. Price

VARSITY STADIUM, Toronto, Oct. 18.—McGill's track and field squad tied its former record of six straight wins in the Intercollegiate Meet at Toronto today. From 1919 to 1924, Coach Van Wagner's teams were unbeatable, and the same has held true since 1930. This year, the Redmen had a greater margin of victory than in recent meets, piling up a total of 36 points, as against 32 for Toronto, Western was close behind with 26, and McMaster and Queen's brought up the rear with 15 and 8 respectively.

Edwards Makes Record

Three records fell as representatives of five universities competed under perfect conditions. Phil Edwards, in his last competition for McGill, broke Gerry Sampson's 800 mark of 1931 with a record of 1:57.2. Larry O'Connor of Varsity ran the high hurdles in the sensational time of 15 secs. flat, breaking Jim Worrall's record by 3-10 seconds. In the javelin, Bob Moore of McMaster made a new distance mark of 177 ft. 10 in., fully 15 feet better than Abe Zvonkin's 1933 record.

Johnny Loaring, Western freshman star, led in the individual aggregate with 16 points. A member of the Canadian schoolboy team which visited the Antipodes last year, Loaring came first in the 100 yards, the 440, the low hurdles, and third in the high hurdles, to turn in the best performance of the day.

Phil's Great Performance

As usual, Phil Edwards played the biggest part in McGill's victory. In the half-mile, Phil jumped ahead of Conway on the last bend, and with a great spurt finished three yards in front to make a new record. He ran side by side with Munroe Bourne in the mile to finish second and had enough left to come second to Loaring in the 440. All in all, a great occasion on which to hang up his spikes.

McGill's strength lay in the running events—middle distance and distance—and in the weights. A Red victory was never in doubt after the one-two finish of Bourne and Edwards in the mile, half-way through the program. They gained six wins, compared with four for Western and three for Toronto, and no less than eight second places. The showing of Western's small team indicated that they are undoubtedly good enough for senior competition. McMaster did not show up as well as expected, while Queen's performance, after their good showing last year, was definitely a disappointment.

Hurdles Feature Event

The blanket finish in the 120 yards high hurdles, with a new record of 13 seconds flat, proved one of the features of the day. O'Connor of Varsity was given the verdict by the judges, with Gene "Red" Record of McGill second, and Loaring of Western inches behind.

Another outstanding performance was that of Gordie Melkolejohn, McGill hockey captain, in the weight events. Big "Mike" tossed the discus 121 ft. 7 1/2 inches, beating out his team-mate, Hank Morgan, and Abe Zvonkin of Queen's. He then went over to the shot put pit and cleaned up in that, too, with a throw just 3/4 inch short of the record.

New Javelin Record

The javelin event provided perhaps the best competition of the day, as two McMaster athletes led the field. Bob Moore and Loughren of the Hamilton school, and Edmond Lareau of McGill, all broke Abe Zvonkin's former mark, aided by a steady breeze. Ab himself was out there trying hard but was left far behind by the ambitious youngsters. Moore established a new record of 177 ft. 10 1/4 inches, which should stand for some time.

Charles Thompson sprang a surprise in the 220-yard dash, winning his heat by a good margin from Ashenhurst of Varsity and then just losing out in a close duel with Patterson of Western Ontario in the good time of 22.5 seconds. Another surprise was Terry Todd's win in the 3 miles. After running behind Kibblewhite and Forrest, of Toronto, Todd took the lead on the last lap and finished strong 30 yards ahead of Forrest.

Relay Win Climax

The old McGill tradition of a winning relay team was maintained on Friday. The last event of the day, with Coach Van Wagner's men far ahead on points, it was nevertheless another event in which to show their heels to the Blue. Captain Frank Nobbs gave Elton Pounder a good lead with a fast opening lap, Pounder and Doug Ama-

Costly McGill Fumbles Give Varsity Gridders Top Standing

By Doug Amaron

VARSITY STADIUM, Toronto, Oct. 19.—Battered and bruised, but fighting every inch of the way, Joe O'Brien's McGill men dropped from first place in the intercollegiate football race this afternoon, when the Blue and White of Toronto celebrated the Diamond Jubilee of football at the U. of T. by defeating the Red team 11-7. Fourteen thousand fans who packed Varsity Stadium, cheered themselves hoarse as every gadget in the bag of football tricks was revealed for them. Sixty minutes of thrills-packed drama kept that immense crowd on its feet for the whole length of the game.

McGill Scores
An evenly matched first period belied what lay in store for football's greatest assemblage of the year. Hardly had the second session started when things began to happen, and once they had started there was no let up until the final whistle blew at the end of the game. Herby Westman gave McGill's few hundred followers something to cheer about when he opened the scoring by lofting a 60 yard punt far over the deadline. This lead was short lived however as on two lightning thrusts Varsity carried the ball from centre field to behind the McGill goal line.

Hugh Marks, Rochester's contribution to intercollegiate football, lined a pass from the 35 yard mark in the direction of a would-be Varsity receiver, Harry Walker who had taken the place of Johnny Riddell, after the latter had torn a ligament in his leg. In his attempt to cut down the pass, interfered with a Varsity man, and Toronto was given possession on the McGill 35 yard line. Before the Reds had time to recover from this loss, Marks tossed another pass, this time far from any McGill men, and Joe Connolly, fleetest of the Varsity backfielders, took it out of the air and crossed the McGill line standing up. It was a brilliant bit of football, and a credit to the Varsity quarter back. The attempted convert hit the upright and bounded out. Toronto 5—McGill 1.

The rest of the period was a re-sumption of the first session. Varsity scored another single when Cam Gray, whom Joe O'Brien considers better than Varsity's regular kicker, lobster, for whom he was substituting, lofted a 70 yard hoist for a touch goal. McGill was threatening when the period ended, and missed a semi-major score when Lou Ruschin's placement went short and wide.

Soon after the start of the half it was evident that McGill was out for gore. Led by MacQuarrie and Anton they had more than held their own with the Varsity team in the first half, but they were only starting. For the first few minutes weak booting by Westman gave the Toronto team an advantage, but soon the Blue and White were backed into their own half of the field. A snappy end run play brought the Torontonians into scoring positions again and Gray booted to Westman behind the McGill line. Herby let the ball bounce off his chest, and Jack Oakley, husky middle wing of the Varsity squad, fell on it for an unconverted touch. Toronto 11, McGill 1.

McGill Drives

Spurred on by this set back the McGill men started to drive. They were stopped in their traces for a few plays when Gray again punted behind the McGill line, but the play was called back because of an offside, and McGill was on the war path again. MacQuarrie and MacQuarrie started from centre field and on two plunges made yards. A penalty for rough play added 15 more yards, and then Anton brought his force into play and added another 20 yards to the advance. Westman booted a single after this, and the score was 11-2 for Toronto.

McGill again took possession at centre field and came right up the grid-iron once more. Anton, who was little short of inspired, plunged for a first down. Then Charles Leloucheau scooped Westman's 15 yard pass off the ground for another gain. Anton went wild again and wasn't stopped until he had gone 25 yards. Two more plunges brought the ball to the 15 yard line, and it was 11-2 against them, and the clock was ticking off the minutes with unerring regularity the Redmen gambled for a major score. Anton was once again the ball. His wearied legs had, but Toronto was

The Late Mary Boggs

It was with the deepest regret that McGill authorities learned last Friday of the accidental death of Mary Catharine Boggs, Arts '38, of Noranda, Quebec. The death occurred as the result of an automobile accident which took place near St. Luc, Quebec, when the car in which Miss Boggs and several other McGill students were driving overturned after skidding on the wet roadway. The girl victim was 20 years of age.

The Daily joins with the rest of McGill in extending the deepest sympathy to the parents of the deceased on their sad bereavement.

Strathcona Hall

THERE is a general feeling at McGill that the time is not far distant when student dormitories will be an established part of the University itself and as a consequence another forward step taken in McGill's path to progress. Meanwhile however the only approach that has been made to such a system, apart from Fraternity houses and Theological colleges, has been made through the existence of Strathcona Hall.

This Hall serves not only as a social and religious centre but also provides residential accommodation for sixty men students. The privileges and facilities of the Hall, as is made clear through an article in another section of today's Daily, are not restricted to any particular group of students but are open to all, without distinction of any kind. This factor alone is one that is deserving of our highest approval.

McGill itself is non-sectarian and Strathcona Hall in adhering to the open house principle is doing much to perpetuate the aim of the true university.

In the past through the work of its leaders the influence of Strathcona Hall has been a real factor in motivating a number of desirable innovations at McGill, not the least of which was the founding of a students' co-operative restaurant in 1933. With the present House Committee taking an increasing interest in student thought and student opinion there is little doubt that we can look for even bigger things from Strathcona Hall in the future.

The Bovey Shield

SELDOM do newcomers in any field of endeavour at McGill get the same opportunity to present their wares as is presented to Freshmen debaters in today's Bovey Shield contest. Closed to all but certain newcomers the competition is one which in the past has always evoked a great deal of interest, thus generally resulting in a fine turnout of speakers.

This afternoon the venue will be the Music Room in the McGill Union and the subject selected is one for which little preparation is necessary owing to the large amount of material relevant to it that has been appearing in every newspaper, to mention the commonest source, for the past six months. Contestants are expected to be able to approach the resolution from either the affirmative or negative side, and it is when viewed from this angle that we see the real value of the contest.

Men who have won the Bovey Shield other years have invariably made names for themselves in Debating Union circles and in their college careers. Consequently it is no little honour for a freshman to win his name added to the long list of winners who have made the winning of the Shield the first step to Intercollegiate Debating honours.

SAGA SHADOWS

It is obvious that the writer of this story has a feeling for music. This feeling has inspired a study of musical theory. It is a feeling that prompts the author always to choose a plot intimately connected with music. The technique employed in the story is that of giving a series of conversations which the reader must synthesize into a unified impression. We are given a snatch of talk in the dressing-room of an opera star. Then we are switched to the impressions of the audience. We return at length to the stage for the end of this cleverly conceived tale.
Curtain
HOW many times must I tell you, Lisette, that I will not have him back!"
"But, Madame—"
"It is finished. I no longer love him, and he knows it. But still he follows me."
"Still he loves you, Madame. Every day at different times he paces up and down outside, looking up as though his eyes could burn their way to you. He is calling out his heart for you and still you do not read his messages. Oh, Madame, take him back. You loved him when he was great. Could you not love him now?"
"Ah, Lisette, of course I loved him. He was the great Torelli. Who wasn't madly in love with Cesare Torelli? I remember it all so vividly. We sang Romeo and Juliet one afternoon. It was spring and we were in Paris. Everything was magic, and, oh, the happiness of it! We sang together in London.—New Lock—La Scala. Everywhere they worshipped him."

"Ah, yes, Madame—and you too?"
"Yes, and me, child. But I was jealous. He seemed to fall away, to change, and then—then—oh—"
"I know, Madame, the drink!"
"Yes, the drink. Oh I wept. But not for long. Lisette. No man is worth that. He ruined himself and killed my love for him. But my voice he could not touch my spirit. Still and always I am Maria Caracci, the Queen of the Opera—La Carozzi. And he is—nothing."
"But he implores you to see him, Madame."
"No."
"The last time he threatened to kill you, if you did not listen to him."
"What do I care for his threats? He would not dare. No, I say, Lisette. No, no! But go now. I must rest for the performance tonight. I shall sing Carmen, and Gallice will be my Don Jose. Oh, Lisette, it will be a fine performance."
"There goes the Maestro. The overture will begin in a moment."
"Yes, there is the applause."
"Curtain ready!"
"It's a big night!"
"Well, no wonder. Not often do you get Caracci and Gallice singing together."
"Sh! Curtain's up."
"There—Diòles de gens que ces gens là!—What a chorus! They are magnificent tonight."
"Listen to Michela. Isn't she superb?"
"Hm. Wait till you hear La Carozzi!"
"Oh, Albert, that first act was lovely now, but I like this one better. She dances so beautiful, don't she?"
"Yuss. She's a corker and no mistake; and she ain't fat like the others neither."
"Now you just listen to that, dearie. That there Torelli. It's got a nice voice."
"Yuss, missis, only these 'ere seats are blasted ard."
"Henry, I've never been so thrilled before with Carmen."
"Hush, my dear. There are others in the box."
"I hadn't noticed them. Wasn't she terrifying in that Card Scene? It seemed as real—just as if something were actually going to happen. I'm trembling all over."
"Well, the act's over now. What applause. Here's your wrap, my dear. You are trembling."
"Look, Henry! They are taking the calls, and Gallice isn't there."
"Yes, of course.—Don Jose. He isn't there."
"That's strange. Here's the manager, or somebody, coming out. Listen."
"Ladies and gentlemen. We regret to announce that Signor Gallice has been stricken suddenly. Another Don Jose is preparing. The curtain will be delayed a few minutes only."
"But Giulio, do you mean to tell me that Cesare Torelli has been singing in the chorus all this time?"
"Yes, Maestro."
"How did you find out?"
"When Gallice collapsed, he offered to take on, so that we could finish the opera. He says, however, that his name must be concealed."
"There he is, Giulio. Is everything ready? All right. In sixty seconds I will commence the overture."
"Yes, Maestro. Chorus ready. The conductor is entering the pit."
"Good luck, my brave Escamillo. I shall wave my fan out here."
"To the bull, little Carmen. To the bull,—and Escamillo. Eh?" I shall soon be back victorious."
"Carmen! Carmen! It is I!"
"Jose! You here! Go away—I have nothing more to do with you. I love Escamillo now. I am Carmen, who loves whom she will."
"Carmen, come back to me. I implore you, Carmen!"
"No, Jose. It is all over between us."
"Carmen, listen to me. Maria, do you not see who I am? Come back, and I will forgive you."
"Go, Jose. I laugh in your face—Oh, God, it's Cesare! God help me! No, Jose, never. I am Escamillo's now."
"I warn you, Carmen. I have a knife."
"Do what you want with it! I care not! Stab me if you will. Here is my breast. See, I throw your ring, Don Jose, in your face! There! Now let me pass."
"No, Carmen! It is the end."
"Let me pass, Jose; let me pass—oh!"
"Carmen—Maria—Speak to me! Oh, heaven! I have killed Carmen!"

Movie Review

Cinema de Paris
THE CINEMA DE PARIS is now showing a revival of the film "Crime et Châtiment," after a novel by Dostoevski. The story is laid in nineteenth century Russia, and concerns the crime of a young student and his consequent punishment of remorse.
Pierre Blanchard plays the part of the student. He portrays excellently the loneliness of remorse and the sense of social unworthiness that a murderer is bound to feel. Harry Baur's acting as the chief of police is most commendable.
Although the film is somewhat more reduced than the book, it is on the whole quite well adapted. It is cut off at the end, but for anyone who has not read the book the film stops at quite a logical point. To anyone interested in hearing French spoken properly "Crime et Châtiment" should prove a good thing to see.
Palace Theatre
Greta Garbo, aided by a brilliant performance on the part of her supporting cast, brings to vivid life the tragic story of Tolstoy's "Anna Karenina" on the Palace screen this week. Her performance is far better than anything she has yet turned in, yet it is almost unfair to give her special mention over the brilliant support given her by Frederick March, in the role of her lover, and Freddie Bartholomew, probably the screen's best child actor, who takes the part of Sergei Karenina, Anna's son. All the minor parts are well taken care of, particularly Count Karenina, played by Basil Rathbone, who presented a fine character study of the pompous, unbending diplomat. In brief, "Anna Karenina" is one of the best productions of the current year, both in story and acting.

The short subjects are also of a high character, including an amusing presentation of Boris Minnervitch and his harmonica band, and a Terrytown cartoon.
S. G. G.
Loew's
This week's show at Loew's can only be classed as mediocre. On the stage Olga & Johnson prove to be a disappointment to anyone expecting big things of them, and are in charge of a group of entertainers which loses much by failing to realize that the Montreal audience may be one which does not take kindly to vulgarity. All in all, they smack too loudly of East-side New York.
"The Murder Man," starring Spencer Tracy, is a fairly racy newspaper mystery story that does much to raise the level of the three hours entertainment. Tracy kept guessing throughout, and Tracy fills the part of the band-loving reporter to perfection. An interesting deep sea sketch with running comment completes the program. — N

A new organ has just been perfected which has no pipes. It is much smaller than a small upright piano and costs only $1,250 as compared with $4,000 and up for most pipe organs. It is full-toned and rich, eerie and soft. It can be plugged into the wall with an ordinary electric cord, and costs less than a cent an hour to operate.—Time.

STRATHCONA HALL
Some misapprehension appears to exist amongst the students regarding the place of Strathcona Hall in the University. We wish it to be known generally that the privileges and facilities of the Hall are not restricted to any particular set or group but are open to all students of McGill without distinction of any kind.
Thirty years ago this autumn, through the generosity of a large number of Montreal citizens (including the late Lord Strathcona), Strathcona Hall was opened. In general, the Hall provides the following services for McGill students:
(1) A SOCIAL AND RELIGIOUS CENTRE. Besides the Student Christian Movement, many different societies and clubs use the committee and meeting rooms of the Hall for regular and special meetings. Its common rooms are frequented freely by large numbers of students during off periods.
(2) RESIDENTIAL ACCOMMODATION FOR SIXTY MEN STUDENTS. When it was built, it was expected that other residences would soon follow. Thus far the Hall has remained the only one.
(3) A CO-OPERATIVE RESTAURANT ON THE SELF-HELP PLAN. This was opened in 1933, under the sponsorship of a group of students interested in International Student Service. Here, meals at inexpensive rates are served to men and women students on the profit-sharing basis. Much of the work is done by those who desire to help pay their way through college.
In order, therefore, that the desires of the donors and trustees may be fulfilled, we cordially invite all students of McGill to enjoy the privileges of Strathcona Hall and to make full and free use of its facilities.

Redmen Win Tennis Title — Gain Easy Soccer Victory

Red Soccer Team Trims R.M.C., 7-1

McGill Forwards Play Pretty Passing Game

JOHN NOLAN SCORES FOUR SMART GOALS

Gentlemen Cadets Have Young, Inexperienced Soccer Team

McGILL'S soccer team hurdled the first obstacle in the defence of their Canadian Intercollegiate championship. The Redmen piled up an impressive 7-1 score against the Gentlemen cadets from Kingston. Captain Johnny Nolan of the McGill team was the outstanding player on the field. He scored four neat goals, and his tricky dribbling had the R.M.C. defence tied into knots.

The R.M.C. squad was composed of rather young and inexperienced players who could at no time cope with the clever passing and ball-carrying of the McGill forward line. A high-light of the game was the play of the two hard-working MacDonald College men, Horsfall and Archer. Archer was directly responsible for four of the McGill goals by his well-placed centres.

The game started at a slow pace. McGill taking things easy. R.M.C. pressed to the attack but found the McGill half-line solid. Laid cleared to relieve the pressure. Then the McGill team warmed to the attack. Nolan secured the ball, passed to Archer, who centred dead on the goal.

Nolan Scores First
Stevens, the R.M.C. goalie, cleared, only to give away a corner. Archer took the corner and placed right to Nolan's head, and Johnny banged it in for the first goal of the game. It was a beautifully-timed and executed play of the type you read about but seldom see.

R.M.C. swept up the field but could not dent the solid-blocking defence of Laid and Janikun. The ball soon returned to its accustomed place in the R.M.C. half of the field, and McGill forced a corner. Archer took it, and in the ensuing shuffle Nolan secured possession and shuffled in a hard one just hitting the bottom of the cross bar. The Cadet forward line threatened the McGill net, but the half ended without further score.

Right from the fact-off, Nolan dribbled through the whole R.M.C. team to secure his third goal of the game and completing his second hat-trick in two games. It was a great effort on the part of the McGill captain.

Cadets Score
The Cadets got one goal back right after when Angus McLaughlin drove a hard shot into the goal, beating Pengelley, who misjudged the ball. Their jubilation was short-lived, however, for big George Owen scored on a long shot, making the score McGill 4, R.M.C. 1.

The Cadets came back to the attack and gained a penalty-kick, which Pengelley saved. Pen made another nice save from the toe of Fox, the R.M.C. outside right. Archer carried the ball down the wing, sent a nice cross into centre, and Nolan scored again. McGill were having things all their own way, and their forward line was functioning to perfection.

Thatcher Bangs One In
Once again, Archer dribbled down the line and passed, this time to Oshusac, the centre-forward, who drove the ball home. Thatcher received a pass from Nolan and sent a scorching shot into the R.M.C. net. The game ended soon after.

The whole McGill team functioned well. The outstanding men were Nolan, Archer and Janikun. For R.M.C., A. McLaughlin and Fox were the best of their players.

Intermediate Rugby Team Lose Hard Game To Eastward

McGill Seconds Defeated by 7-3 Score

MATHESON RED STAR

McGILL'S intermediate rugby team went down fighting before the strong Eastward aggregation, by a score of 7-3. This is the third defeat for the Redmen, but they have done well enough considering the fact that as soon as a man shows promise, he is promoted to the Senior team, the score was not indicative of the play, for the Eastwards had their hands full all the time.

The Redmen started with a rush. Matheson caught the kick-off and carried it beyond the halfway line. They continued pressing and their efforts were finally rewarded when Matheson kicked for a single point. He followed this up with another kick to the deadline, making the score 2-0 for McGill.

Eastward Takes Lead
Eastward opened up their famous forward passing attack, which brought the ball into McGill territory. Mullins ran back a McGill kick to score the first touchdown of the game. Matheson converted putting Eastward far into the lead.

McGill made a last drive in the closing minutes of the game, and secured results when Matheson kicked over the line to Popowski, who was fouled. The outstanding players for the Red seconds were Matheson, who scored all three points, Dakin and Kenny.

The line-up:
Eastward (7): Osborne, McBurnie, Aitchison, Popowski, Lacroix, Flanagan, Cleary, Harfield, Peard, MacDonaid, Lytle, Hamilton. Alternates: Jeffrey, Dineen, Shields, Charter, Gunn, Lett, McIntosh, Costello, Morale, Mullins and Coates.

Frosh Rugby Team Lose Close Game To Loyola Maroons

McGILL'S fighting band of Freshmen rugby players lost a close game to the Loyola Maroons, by a score of 7-6. The Frosh took a commanding lead in the first quarter, when McConnell dashed around the end, leaving a trail of empty-handed tacklers on the gridiron and trotted over the line for a major score.

The Redmen had all the play in the first quarter, taking full advantage of the fumbling Loyola half-backs. Time and again they crashed through the line, until they reached the Maroon 20-yard line. McConnell skirted the end for a touchdown, putting McGill into the lead. Hamilton kicked the convert from placement, and the ball went between the posts giving the Redmen six points.

Loyola Score Touch
Loyola fought back grimly and were finally rewarded when Dubee picked up a loose ball and raced 25 yards for a touchdown. Morley converted, and the ball game was tied up. The West-end collegians began their big drive and held the McGill team hemmed in their own half. They finally reached a scoring position, and Morley kicked over the line for a single point, putting Loyola into the lead.

The Frosh tried hard but could not break away for a score. They did well enough in holding Loyola back from a major score. McConnell and Merrifield were the outstanding players for McGill. The intermediate college standing now finds all three teams tied with two points.

McGill Team In Women's Tennis Meet At London

Toronto Wins Tourney — Queen's Runners-up

An unheralded event of importance to all co-eds took place on Friday and Saturday at London, Ont., as McGill was represented for the first time in the Women's Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament. The event was staged by the University of Western Ontario on the courts of the London Tennis Club.

The University of Toronto team was successful in gaining first place with a total of sixteen points. Queen's were runners-up with ten points. Claire Walsh, Montreal girl who is now a fresher at Varsity, won the singles championship, defeating Eloise Tennent of Western in the final. The doubles were won by Barbara Chuff and Helen Cottle of Queen's.

McGill Team
Beth Fraser, Margaret Hart, Adele Lortie, and Betty Murphy were the four McGill representatives, and report a very successful tournament. They gained much valuable experience and state the next year's tourney should see the Red and White in a contending position.

Plunging Plumbers Defeat Molarmen

THE powerful Plumbers rolled to a hard-fought victory over the Dental dreadnoughts in a hectic Inter-faculty football tilt on the campus on Saturday. Fielding a plunging pack of enigmatic engineers, they piled up points to win by the decisive margin of 2-1. Although caught flat-footed by the fast-breaking plays of the Molarmen in the first quarter, Harry Grimsdale's men soon tightened up and started to go places. Hubbard, with a powerful line in front of him and a hard-tackling backfield, booted mammoth punts to account for both points.

For the Dental demons, "Biffer" Tomasi turned in a crashing game throughout. A last-minute aerial attack brought them within striking distance of the Plumbers' goal line, but a reversal of form enabled the latter to stem the tide, and the game ended with Grimsdale's charges on the credit side of the ledger.

English Rugby XV Gains Narrow Win Over Tricolor Squad

McGill Team Defeats Queen's By 7-6 Score

RABINET OUTSTANDING

WITH one point to the good, McGill defeated Queen's 7-6 in rugby on the campus field Saturday afternoon. Trailing 3-0 in the first half, McGill, through Rabinet's fine work, dropped a goal and gained the lead which was maintained throughout the game. A touch in the second half increased the lead three points, for which Queen's soon took revenge with another touch, making the final count 7-6.

Early in the game Queens took the offensive, passing deep into McGill territory. Taking advantage of a free kick, Boyle kicked to the mark, giving Queen's the lead 3-0.

Rabinet Scores
Kicking at every opportunity, Rabinet, whose play placed him among the McGill stars of the afternoon, kept the game open, at times, perhaps, too open for the Redmen. An attack against the Queen's side gave Rabinet the chance to seize the pigskin from a scramble and drop it over for a goal. Thus the half-time score was McGill 4—Queen's 3.

Queen's were the aggressors in the first half, but in the second McGill unleashed their attack and held the Queen's men at bay. Soon after the opening of the second half a Partridge-to-Foote-to-Widemann-to - Foster series of passes took Foster over the line for a try. Smith, taking the kick, halld.

Play Changes
Ricker all but went over for another score soon after, but a free kick for Queen's sent the play to the Redmen's end of the field. Rabinet soon brought the McGill men again deep into the Queen's area, but this time an off-side sent them back.

Queen's in possession, charged down to the McGill end, Fleming, breaking away and, dashing alone, carried the ball behind the posts where he was able to touch for a try. The kick was taken by Boyle who, booting a long, low one sent the score up three points for Queen's. The score now stood 7-6 for McGill.

Final Score 7-6
Both teams attacked, but in the ensuing seven minutes no score was made. Rabinet, Foote, and Partridge were outstanding for McGill, while Macdonald, Fleming and Boyle starred for the tricolor.

Line-ups:
McGill: Thomson (captain), Romans, Foote, Coleman, Partridge, Rabinet, Smith, Scott, Ogilvy, Stapleton, Foster, Williams, Ricker, Widemann and Savage.

Queen's: Stewart, Grimes-Graeme, Drum, Smith, Corlett, Forrest, Boyle, Macdonald (captain), Forrester, Kinloch, Penney, Hoch, Fleming, Conacher and Bowles-Evans.

men 10 yards, and then they failed a placement, booting an inside kick instead. Varsity recovered on its five yard line.

Still McGill wasn't finished. A poor kick gave McGill the ball on the Varsity 30 yard line once more, again a placement formation was lined up, and again an inside kick was attempted. Again Varsity scooped up the ball, gaining 15 yards as well, when the receiver was given no yards.

That was the end. McGill had gambled its all and had lost. An end run brought 20 yards to the Blue team. Connelly then found a big hole and ripped off 35 more yards before he was stopped. Gray then booted to Westman who was roused, but he had been given no yards, and McGill took the ball on its fifteen yard line. A few seconds to play, and a forward pass went wrong. The whistle, and the game was over. What a game to win, and what a game to lose! Our only comment is don't miss the return match next Saturday.

the press and in the streets. Newspapers say that Christianity is coming to an end, that the conversion of the Germans to Christianity was a crime against the race, that its claim is a thing of the past. If Christianity loses in Germany," declared Rabbi Eisen-drath, "our entire civilization is doomed."

Palestine Prosperous
Referring to Palestine, the Rabbi said that he did not go there as a Zionist but rather "to visit the birthplace of his faith and tread the soil so pregnant with sacred memories. There is hope in this Promised Land where children are the first consideration. Palestine is thus an answer to Rome and Berlin. "And," concluded the speaker, "as Napoleon once said: 'There are only two forces in the world—the sword and the spirit. In the end the spirit triumphs.'"

Plans Revealed
The Political Economy Club has issued the complete program for this session. On November 31, G. Kleiner and C. Gross will discuss "Some Recommendations of the Price Spread Commission." A month later, the subject of "Economic Separatism in Canada" will be treated by E. Gordon and H. Van Sooyes. At the first meeting of the new year, on January 30, L. Winkler and A. Bloomfield will talk on "The Canadian Wheat Problem," and on February 20, N. Morrison and A. Pick will give an outline of "The Co-operative Movement in Nova Scotia." On March 19, R. Leatham and P. Vineberg will discuss the question "What will Happen to God?"

sisted by Alena Walcott and Ron Smith.
A. G. Weaver spoke on "The Good Shepherd." The parable of the lost sheep was taken as an example of how Christ would have been willing to come to the world to rescue one single sinner from spiritual darkness. The speaker pointed out, however, that "All have sinned and have come short of the glory of God."

side and the drive fell a yard short of its mark.
Westman Brilliant
Slowly up for the time being, but not repulsed, McGill came back again. Varsity had the ball at centre field as the period ended, and on the first play after the turn Gray booted to Westman. Then followed intercollegiate football's most brilliant play of the season, if not of all time. Herby took the ball on the run on his own 30 yard line. He cut left and whirled past three Varsity tacklers. For thirty yards he raced down the left side of the field, and then just as it seemed he would be stopped, he side stepped the Varsity forces and cut right. He was finally pulled down on the Toronto 30 yard line, but as he fell he passed the ball to Drury who was right beside him. Bud went another five yards, and then passed again to Hornig, who moved to the 15 yard line before the play finally came to an end. 70 yards through the whole Varsity team, and a first down on the Toronto 15 yard line. A plunge, a 10-yard gain on a Varsity offside, and another plunge. The ball was on on the two yard line, and Andy Anon was given the ball. He didn't fail his team and crossed the line with five Varsity tacklers on his back. McGill 7—Varsity 11.
[That wasn't all. McGill was still down, and was still fighting. A gain on a kicking exchange forced Toronto back to its 25 yard line. Two bucks failed and Gray fell back to kick. Walter Stockwell, the 'old reliable,' broke through the Toronto defence, and smeared the kick, he kept on running and picked up the ball. He had a clear field for a touchdown, but a McGill man, knocked off balance, fell across his feet and Walter was downed. A strange trick of fate, but that is football! An offside cost the McGill

There is a great deal of satisfaction in helping underprivileged youth. Results are so worthwhile and apparent. Youth thinks of life as a game, to be played with or without rules as a good or bad environment may dictate. Given a good environment underprivileged youth eagerly accepts the right rules, thereby learning lessons in good citizenship which will stand it in good stead in later years.
